

Abstract

Maximum 300 words. Must include a title and author name(s) and affiliations (these do not contribute towards the wordcount). We expect that the applicant would be the first or last author. The abstract does not need to include any references but any you wish to include do not contribute towards the word count. The abstract should describe an up-to-date review of an emerging, topical area of human nutrition science, including its relevance to public health, the most important research findings to date, where the applicant's research advances current understanding in the field (if applicable) and implications for future research and practice. It should specify the type of review (narrative or systematic) and the methodology that will be used to conduct the review including the types of studies that would be included.

Please note that abstracts describing original research including studies in animals or modelling work will not be considered for the award.
